

ATELIER LUDWIGSBURG-PARIS

Following the system of dual diplomas which exist in Europe, LA FEMIS and the FILMAKADEMIE BADEN-WÜRTTEMBERG have created a common continuous training programme, which is validated by both schools.

This one-year fulltime programme designed for young European producers and distributors was created with the support of the French and German states, the Creative Europe-MEDIA programme and the OFAJ. Since 2007, one session of the course takes place in London in partnership with the National Film and Television School of Beaconsfield.

Its main objective is to offer a new generation of future producers and distributors a realistic and concrete view of present strategies in screenwriting, financing, production, co-production, distribution, marketing and selling of European cinematic works, specifically in France, Germany, and the UK. The other objective of this course is to teach participants the development in commun of a commissioned production.

Selection

Young professionals graduated from universities or film schools (minimum baccalaureate + 3) with prior experience in audiovisual production or very motivated by this sector, coming from the wider European Union – and as a European programme, for a limited number of non European participants (30%) - and not over the age of 30.

Programme

- Workshops, seminars and meetings with professionals
- Practical case studies
- Active presence at Clermont-Ferrand, Berlin and Cannes film festivals
- Production of a short film project

Calendar

The training takes place over one year in France, Germany and England from the beginning of October until the end of August and is divided into 6 sessions: 2 sessions in Ludwigsburg at the Filmakademie of Baden-Württemberg, 2 sessions at La Fémis in Paris with an active presence at the Clermont-Ferrand and Cannes film festivals, 1 session in London at the NFTS, and 1 session in Berlin during the Berlinale.

Training languages: respectively French OR German AND English
